

It is clear that monopolies work against the free exchange of diverse ideas that is essential to a democracy. Every effort must be made to encourage varied and balanced ownership of media outlets within individual markets as well as nationwide. Deregulation will make it increasingly difficult for alternative points of view to be heard.